Percent Of Something

What You Will Need:
• Computer, phone, or any device with internet access • Flipgrid account • Khan Academy account

Review
Watch this presentation to review some math that will help you better understand about how to compute percents. Some links have a Youtube version of the same thing in case you can't connect to the other. Click here to see a review that will help you. Youtube version

The Lesson	Practice	Share Your Thoughts
Watch this short video, which will illustrate how percents are similar to an equivalent fraction with 100 in the denominator. Click here to view the lesson. Youtube version	Log in to your Khan Academy account and do the exercises in this link, to find the missing numbers in equivalent fractions. Some of them are out of 100, which would be like finding a percent. Click here to do some practice in your account	Click here to tell me your thoughts and answer my questions A problem-solving skill is to recognize when something new is similar to something you already know. Click the Flipgrid link and enter your Flipgrid ID for class. If you don't have an ID, use 12345.

Deep Dive
Complete these exercises in Khan Academy that use the number line to identify equivalent fractions. Click here for an activity that will challenge you

Assessment:
Click here to complete an activity that will show me if you met my objective.

If you are still not quite sure you understand the meaning of percents, view this short video. It may help.
The Meaning of Percents